

Stationary point

A stationary point of a function is one where function is neither increasing nor decreasing. This occurs when the gradient of its curve is zero, that is to say, when its derivative is zero.